BEFORE YOU GO: GET ON THE LIST

1. Your loved one gets you the visitor information form (BP-629) and fills out their visiting list with their counselor.
2. The unit team runs a background check (NCIC) and decides who goes on the list.
3. Do not visit until your loved one tells you that you are approved. They tell you.
4. The list holds immediate family (mother, father, step-parents, foster parents, brothers, sisters, spouse and children) plus no more than ten friends. They must have known you before prison unless the warden makes an exception.
5. Grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, in-laws and the mother of their child are not immediate family. They need to be on the approved list before they can visit.
6. They can change the list at any time through their unit team. Someone who was taken off the list can be added back after six months.
7. Transferred from another prison? The old approved list is recognized.[1]

AT THE DOOR

EXTRA POINTS	They can ask for up to ten extra points a month for special reasons. More than that needs extra approval.[1]
SCREENING	You must walk through the metal detector. If you set it off, you will be checked with a hand-held wand and may be patted down. If you refuse, you cannot visit. Your hand is stamped, and checked under a black light when you come in and when you leave.[1]
MONEY	Do not bring more than $20.00. The only food allowed in the visiting room is from the vending machines.[1]
WHAT YOU CAN CARRY	One see-through coin purse, no bigger than about 9 by 9 inches. For a baby: two diapers and one baby bottle per baby, and store-bought baby food in its sealed container. WHAT TO WEAR	No open-toed shoes or high heels. No miniskirts, halter tops, sleeveless shirts, tank tops, backless clothes, body suits, sweat suits or sweatpants, form-fitting or see-through clothes, or clothes that end at the knee or above. Do not wear khaki, which can look like inmate clothing. Women must wear a bra and other undergarments.[1]
TOUCHING	A hug and a kiss are allowed only at the start and end of the visit.[1]
WHEN IT GETS CROWDED	Staff first ask local visitors (within a fifty mile radius) to volunteer to leave. If that is not enough, they end visits by how close you live and how often you visit. The main visiting room holds 133 people. The camp room holds 57. You cannot wait in your car.[1]
